

09/423,776

98. (NEW) A method of monitoring haemodynamic function in a human or animal subject, comprising monitoring changes in blood flow in a peripheral blood vessel or tissue bed, to provide an indication of changes in cardiac output.